

International Wood Biorefinery Week, Stockholm 24-26th 2016

The International Wood Biorefinery Week is the event for the rapidly changing forest industry where synergies between different sectors in the industry are becoming increasingly important. The event combines three strong events in the forest industry in order to offer the exhibitors and visitors a large, efficient and timely meeting place corresponding to their needs. The aim is to offer an efficient and business focused meeting place for the different target groups of the events and to enable co-operation within the forest industry and with other manufacturing industries.

+ International Pulp & Paper Week

The International Pulp & Paper Week will continue the long tradition of pulp and paper tradeshows by Adforum since 1968. The last event in May 2011 gathered 650 exhibiting companies from 30 countries in 230 stands, and 9,064 visitors from 56 different countries.

Exhibitors: Suppliers of products and services to the pulp, paper and board industry.

Visitors: Professionals from the entire pulp, paper & board industry such as CEOs, sourcing managers, engineers, consultants and operational staff.

+ Bioeconomy Innovation Forum

The Bioeconomy Innovation Forum is the event for new and innovative products from the forest industry. This is the meeting place between the forest industry and other manufacturing industries interested in biobased products. The forum will not only be innovative when it comes to the conference program, also the forum itself will be innovative, offering the latest trends within the meeting industry such as networking islands.

The focus will be on eight important areas: Nanocellulose, Bioplastics and Biocomposites, Textile fibres, Biofuels, Carbon fibre from lignin, Packaging, Biochemicals and Constructions.

Exhibitors: Organizations working with different biobased product and solutions.

Visitors: Experts and sourcing managers from different manufacturing industries interested in sustainable biobased solutions.

+ World Bioenergy

World Bioenergy is the international tradeshow for the forest based bioenergy industry, organized since 2004. The tradeshow is the most important marketplace for suppliers and purchasers of products, technology, services and expertise in the bioenergy sector. Important product areas are fuel production, processing and energy extraction from biomass. The last events have been visited by 3-4,000 visitors from 80 different countries.

Exhibitors: Suppliers of products and services in the bioenergy sector.

Visitors: Professionals from the forest and energy industries.
